Queer Temporalities in Trans Video Blogs

The discussion will be based on the book trans Werden. Queere Zeitlichkeiten und Transitionen in Videoblogs* (ICI Berlin Press, 2025, Becoming Trans: Queer Temporalities and Transitions in Video Blogs), which consists of a media studies analysis of selected videos by trans video bloggers who documented their gender transitions on YouTube in the 2010s. In self-documentary practices that record the effects of testosterone on the body, being trans reveals itself as a complex and uncertain becoming that can be experienced as queer temporality in a specific environment mediated by technology.
